		We have complete commitment and support from top leadership.
		We have a commitment to clarify roles and expectations for all participants in the planning process, including who will contribute to the plan and who will be the decision-makers.
		We have the inter-departmental support and cooperation we need to succeed.
		We are open to learning about and responding to our county's internal and external needs through research and involvement.
		We have a CJAB planning team comprised of big picture thinkers, subject matter experts and a strategic planning coordinator.
		The CJAB Chairperson and Coordinator are willing to be inclusive and encourage broad participation so that everyone feels ownership of the plan and is energized by the process.
		We have committed adequate organizational resources to complete the planning process, including necessary staff time.
		We have a culture that is open to looking beyond the status quo to find new ways of doing things.
		We are willing to ask the hard questions, face difficult choices and make decisions that are best for our county.
		We want our CJAB to be successful.
